JAPANESE SCOUTS ARE MASSACRED

It Is Believed That a Fierce Land Battle Is Now Raging---
Both St. Petersburg and Tokio Wait for News.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.]

St. Petersburg, June 27.—A dispatch from Mukden reports a force of Cossacks gave chase to some Japanese who were reconnoitering at Gen. Kuroki's right. The pursuit lasted twelve hours; the valley is strewn with bodies of Japanese. The Russians lost but a few men.

Near at Hand

London, June 27.—St. Petersburg dispatch advises this morning state that Gen. Kuroki is marching upon Iki-Cheng, and a great battle is at hand. A detachment of the Russian army is assuming the offensive against Gen. Oku's forces. Severe fighting near the village of Ten Chen was reported Sunday. The results are not made known. All day Sunday the Russian troops moved forward from Ta-Tche-Kio to occupy the assigned positions. It is accepted as a fact at St. Petersburg that Kuropatkin finally determined to assume the offensive and a decisive battle is now on.

St. Petersburg, June 27.—It is reported that a serious land fight has taken place near Ta Tche Kiao, in which the Russians were defeated. No confirmation of this rumor is obtainable.

Up to Sunday night the Japanese report of the loss of three Russian ships at Port Arthur has not been published here, though the authorities have allowed to be printed a statement that the squadron had made a sortie and also the news of the loss of Japanese torpedo-boat destroyers. Some of the papers have even commented on the prospect of the fight in the open sea, where the merits of the two fleets would be fairly tested.

An official explanation of the suppression of the Japanese report is that the admiralty is unwilling to unnecessarily alarm the public by the circulation of such statements entirely on the authority of the enemy and in the absence of definite advice from the commander at Port Arthur. It is also suggested as possible that there has been a fight and that the Japanese have minimized their own losses and magnified those of the Russians with a view to affecting the new loan which it is understood Japan is negotiating.

Hold Back the News.

On the other hand, according to a foreign naval attaché, the admiralty has admitted that Rear Admiral Witthoff, the naval commandant at Port Arthur, lost one battleship and two cruisers, but in the absence of details there was an inclination to believe that the ships struck mines, the admiralty not believing, in the face of the lessons taught by the injuries to the Retvizan and Cesarvitch, that Admiral Witthoff would remain in the outer roadstead at night, thus inviting a dash by the Japanese destroyers.

MYSTERY OF KENT J. LOOMIS'
DISAPPEARANCE DEEPENSAfter Week Police Are as Far as Ever from Finding Slightest Trace of Missing Man.

Paris, June 27.—No news was received today regarding the whereabouts of Kent J. Loomis, brother of Francis B. Loomis, American assistant secretary of state, who disappeared shortly before or after the arrival of the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II. at Plymouth June 20.

Although midnight last night marks a week since the disappearance of Mr. Loomis, the officials still cling to the belief that he will turn up when the efforts of his abstraction have worn off. Their belief is due to a careful deduction from the series of circumstances related by W. J. Ellis, his companion on board the steamer, and by Gustave Flammé of San Francisco, who was a fellow passenger. This process of deduction practically excludes the theory of foul play on board the Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Although satisfied that Loomis was not lost from the Kaiser Wilhelm II., the officials foresee the possibility that some harm may have befallen him after he landed at Plymouth.

In high court and army and navy circles, where the report of the Port Arthur affair has been freely circulated, the Japanese version is received with considerable reserve.

The officials do not attempt to disguise the seriousness and far reaching consequences which might result from the loss of three of the Port Arthur warships, but they profess to be more inclined to believe that the vessels were lost in open fight rather than as the result of a torpedo attack. Should this be the case, they say, the Japanese could not have escaped without material loss, and the crippling of one or two of their battleships, enough to assure the command of the sea to the Baltic squadron.

Togo Lures the Russians.

London, June 27.—The following dispatch from Tokio, dated June 26, was received here:

"A detached account of the naval battle at Port Arthur has just been published here.

"The Russian battleships Peresviet, Poltava, and Sevastopol and the cruisers Bayan, Askold and Novik attempted to emerge from the harbor at dawn on June 23, led by steamers used for clearing the mines. At 11 o'clock the battleships Cesarvitch, Retvizan and Pobleda joined the others.

"All the ships then advanced, endeavoring to dispose of the mines laid by the Japanese, but they were hindered by two Japanese torpedo-boat destroyers which had been guarding the mouth of the harbor.

"At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Japanese torpedo boats exchanged shots with seven Russian destroyers, which were covering the clearing operations. One of the Russian destroyers was set on fire and retired inside the harbor.

Turn Tail and Run.

"Subsequently the Japanese decoyed the Russians out to sea and awaited an opportunity to begin a general action, at between 8 and 9 p. m. the Russian ships made for the harbor. The Japanese torpedo-boat destroyers and torpedo-boats chased the Russians and at 9:30 o'clock delivered the first attack, in consequence of which the enemy was thrown into disorder.

"During the night eight separate attacks were delivered, lasting until dawn of Friday.

"In one of these assaults the Chiratska twice torpedoes a battleship of the Peresviet type and sank her. A battleship of the Sevastopol type and a cruiser of the Diana type were disabled and towed away.

"The Russian vessels re-entered the harbor Friday.

"The newspapers publish eulogistic articles on Vice Admiral Togo's prompt action."

However, they consider this possibility rather remote. Nevertheless, the complete absence of clues, after a week of continued effort to find Mr. Loomis, makes the case one of increasing mystery.

Chance to Win in the Big Race Tomorrow.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.]

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 27.—All the crews who participate in tomorrow's regatta were out this morning and did easy work. The oarsmen are putting on the finishing touches. The general opinion is the race will be one of the closest ever seen on the local course. In the opinion of Coach Courtney of Cornell the Badgers have a good chance to win as they are in excellent condition. Coach O'Don says only one Wisconsin man has lost weight. The crew is ready to race any moment. Columbia is being backed to win, but little Pennsylvania money is to be had. Georgetown is figured will make a great race.

OFFERS PRIZE TO FIRST

Order and Encourages Parents to Augment Families.

St. Louis, Mo., June 27.—Edmund Beall, president of the Alton Manufacturers' association and of the Alton Civic Improvement league and one of the successful business men of that city, has offered a prize to the family first visited by the stork in his new flat, "Stork's Nest."

There was a great demand for the flats subsequent to the announcement that Mr. Beall would not rent his houses to families in which there were no children and that he intends in his tenants to discriminate as much in favor of families as other landlords discriminate against them.

Mr. Beall announced to his tenants when they moved into the flats on Thursday that he would offer a prize of a fine baby buggy for the first baby born in the building. There are four families in the house that are enjoying having a landlord who does not raise the rent because there are children in the household.

MONSIGNORE GUIDI DIES
IN THE PHILIPPINESHe Was Sent to Islands as Vatican's
Representative in Sale of Friar
Lands to United States.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.]

Manila, June 27.—Monsignore Guidi, the vicar for the sale of the friar lands, died today of heart failure. The funeral will take place here next Friday and the remains will be interred two months later at Rome.

An agreement regarding the sale of the lands was reached early in December last by Governor Taft and the friars. The settlement provided for the purchase of 403,000 acres, comprising all of the friar lands in the islands. The price paid for the lands was $7,250,000.

Prelate Was of Noble Family.
His excellency, the Most Rev. Monsignore Augusto Guidi, D. D., who was consecrated archbishop Sept. 21, 1902, and left Rome immediately for Manila as apostolic delegate, was a member of a noble Roman family. He was born in 1852, and studied at the Gregorian university and Collegia Romano until 1870, when he entered the Pontifical seminary. Distinguishing himself there, he was sent to the University of Innsbruck in Switzerland, where he took up the study of theology and law, the latter because he had a peculiarly legal and diplomatic mind. His education was completed at the Sorbonne in Paris.

His brilliant mind and other attainments were recognized by the late Pope Leo XIII, almost as soon as he ascended the papal throne, and Monsignore Guidi was at once appointed secretary of the nunciature at Madrid, always the highway to preferment at the Vatican. From 1899 until his appointment as delegate to the Philippines, Monsignore Guidi had occupied rooms at the Vatican, and for some years he was the confidential adviser of the pontiff. Nominally in the office of secretary of state and really only a Monsignore, he possessed influence out of all proportion to his official position, so that his appointment as delegate was in a peculiar sense the personal one of the pope.

Spoken of for American Delegate.
Monsignore Guidi showed by his work in the Philippines that the pope was sincerely desirous of bringing about peaceably the withdrawal of the friars from the islands, because in many cases the United States desired that they should be withdrawn. Recently the Monsignore has been spoken of frequently in Roman ecclesiastical circles as the next delegate to the United States, as it is rumored that the Most Rev. Falconio will not return to the United States, but will remain in Rome.

Prince George and Prince Konrad of Bavaria, traveling incognito as Count George Wurttemberg and Count Konrad Wurttemberg, and escorted by Captain Heitzenstein of the German army, arrived in Washington yesterday from Newport. They will be presented to President Roosevelt at the white house today.

GIRL ADJUSTS NOOSE
ABOUT NECK OF NEGROAlleged Victim of Assault Then Leads Horse From Under Condemned
Man, Who Denies Guilt.

Eupora, Miss., June 27.—Starling Dunham, negro, charged with assaulting the 14-year-old daughter of John Wilson, a white man, near Bellefontaine, two weeks ago, was hanged in the public square here Sunday by a mob.

The noose was placed about the negro's neck by the little Wilson girl, who had positively identified him. The negro was placed upon the back of a horse and at a signal the girl led the horse from under him.

More than 3,000 persons, white and black, witnessed the hanging. Dunham was captured Friday near Vienna, Ala., after a chase, during which he was twice wounded. There was a strong sentiment for burning, but this was overcome. Dunham maintained his innocence to the last and denied that he had ever seen the Wilson girl. His last remarks were made to 200 negroes who were assembled about the place of execution.

MILTON COMMENCEMENT

The Milton college baccalaureate sermon was preached last evening by President William C. Daland from the text, "These ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone." The sermon was a protest against one-sidedness in nature, in education, and in life. The speaker made a strong plea in behalf of the study of law in a college course, because of its value as a means of general culture. He warned against the danger and evil of overspecialization, and urged all who desire to follow any special line not to fail in laying first a thoroughly broad foundation in a liberal education.

Husband in the Insane Asylum, and She Without Work---
A Sad Story of Abject Poverty---
Left Letters.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.]

Chicago, July 27.—Mrs. Anna Kolodzik took a dispassionate view of the situation. During six weeks her husband, Frederick Kolodzik, had been an inmate of the Kankakee asylum for the insane, and she and her three sons, the oldest only 7, were on the verge of starvation. Then, too, they were to have been evicted from their home Monday morning. So she killed herself and the children Sunday morning by asphyxiation. A note addressed to her husband at the asylum read as follows:

"My Husband: There is nothing to tell you. You will read it in the papers and you will know what has happened and the reason for it."

The four deaths were the culmination of a series of misfortunes that had blighted the lives of the once industrious, happy family. The husband long had been employed at the Deering harvester plant. Nine months ago he was discharged because of dull times. During many weeks he walked the streets day by day, seeking in vain for work, and day by day the family savings dwindled and want crept nearer the home.

Losses Reason Over Work.
Two months ago a man called at the dwelling and told the husband and father he could return to work at the harvester plant within a week. Kolodzik, neighbors say, acted as if he believed the visitor was joking.

The next day Kolodzik's mind gave way. He put on the suit he wore at the factory and started to take the stove apart. When his wife asked him what he was doing he told her not to bother him, because he had gone to work again and was "making good money." Then he took the clock and two of the bedsteads apart and put them together again, and repeated the process until the police came after him and he was sent to the asylum.

Then the wife and mother faced the problem of existence alone. It had proved too hard for the man; it soon proved too hard for the woman. Saturday night came, with no food in the house, and there was shelter only for one day. Mrs. Kolodzik sat down and wrote the note to her husband. Then she began to solve the problem of life in the only way she knew—by death.

Much of the time was spent by Mrs. Kolodzik in preparation for the tragedy. That was apparent when the bodies of herself and her sons were discovered. First she had "cleaned house" thoroughly, then she had washed and ironed all the children's clothing and her own, and had packed it in a hamper.

Prepares the Shrouds.
On top of the hamper was the clothing in which the mother wished herself and the boys to be buried, as she said in one of several notes written shortly before death. The white dress with the pink ribbons was to be her shroud, while Bruno, 7 years old, and Herman, 5, were to be dressed in their Sunday suits. Walter, 2 years old, was to wear the dress she had just made for him.

At 1 o'clock Sunday morning the light in the Kolodzik flat still was burning according to neighbors, and the woman could be seen writing at a kitchen table. It is believed that not long afterward she executed her plan for death by disconnecting a rubber hose that led from a gas jet to a small stove in the kitchen. Previously she had stopped all chimneys in the windows and the keyhole with paper.

By 8 o'clock Sunday morning the odor of the escaping gas had permeated the flat across the hallway and one of the occupants traced it to its source by climbing through a window to the roof of an adjoining building and forcing a bedroom window of the Kolodzik apartments.

Finds Children Dead in Bed.
Just inside the neighbor found the bodies of the two eldest, Kolodzik boys, lying in bed together, while that of Walter, the baby, was on a cot in the room adjoining. The body of the mother, fully dressed, was in a corner of the kitchen. The rubber hose, through which the gas was escaping, was just above her head, indicating that she had held its end in her mouth until she became unconscious.

Or the table were the letters the woman had written. One of them was sealed and addressed to her parents in Berlin. Another was meant for the landlord, who, she wrote, had ordered her to pay her rent, for a month overdue, or leave the building. "I am angry with you for that," the letter concluded.

Neighbors of the Kolodziks said the family would have starved except for help given them by a union, of which the husband was a member.

SIX THOUSAND PERSONS
VICTIMS OF MASSACRESTwenty-Eight Armenian Villages Are Said to Have Been Destroyed by Turkish Troops and Kurds.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.]

London, June 27.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail claims to have indisputable authority for the following details of recent massacres in Armenia in which 6,000 persons were killed: The villages of Darnet, Adekelpoun, Ararat, Kari, Vertok and Mekron were sacked and burned. The inhabitants in many cases were massacred and the corpses cast into the wells of Mouradoun. Mekron was pillaged by Kurds, who were accompanied by Turkish soldiers.

Its church was plundered and profaned. The objects of worship were sold at auction. Every able bodied man was stabbed, most of them in the back. During the night Turkish soldiers entered houses and assaulted women. On the arrival of the British and French consuls women, streaming with blood, rushed to them, begging for mercy.

Mouch is occupied by Turkish soldiers. More than 2,000 women and children from the destroyed villages have taken refuge there. These are wretched and wander through the streets half dead from hunger and fear.

Reduced Railway Curves.
The engineers of the last few years, in relaying tracks, instead of starting a true circle curve with the sudden lift of the outer rail that causes the jolt and lurch that travelers know, have laid a slight parabolic curve from a point a hundred yards back on the straight track, and have elevated the outer rail imperceptibly along that curve to the maximum. The result of the device—in practice quite new—has been the annihilation of curves as regards a passenger's sense.

Raises Plumcots.

The plumcot is a hybrid of the plum and apricot produced on the California ranch of Luther Burbank, who has raised stoneless plums, and prunes, white blackberries, daisies four inches across, and amaryllis blossoms ten inches in diameter. The plumcot has the general appearance of the apricot and the same outside appearance, but is more highly colored than either a plum or an apricot. It has a soft skin and an indescribably delicious flavor.

Clever Aphorisms.

Among the aphorisms which have been produced by a prize contest in the Westminster Gazette, the following may be mentioned: "There is no God but gold, and infinite is its profit." "All is not gold that glitters": a reminiscence of Lamb is found in "Only good men die," and another contributor says, "A paradox is only a platitude in fancy dress."

Appetite of Young Robins.

Young robins have an almost insatiable appetite for worms, and must eat at least as much as their weight daily. Their powers of digestion are prodigious in proportion to their size and age, and their rate of growth is correspondingly rapid.

Pearls a Chinese Medicine.

Pearls are still a potent medicine in China. Seeds of plants have magic properties, the banana seed being especially prized in Uganda. Claws of lions are such important amulets in Africa that they are quite generally counterfeited.

REV. DENISON ON POWER OF FAITH

BY FAITH ALL MAY BE ACCOMPLISHED.

HISTORY SHOWS THE POWER

We Should Have Faith in Self, Other People and in Ideas—Faith is the Strongest of Powers.

At the morning worship at the Congregational church Reverend R. C. Denison delivered a forceful sermon on "The Faith That Helps." His subject was taken from the eleventh chapter of Hebrews in which the writer shows that the important events of Hebrew history were accomplished by faith. All history is wrought by faith.

Faith in Self Ideas
There are several kinds of faith which are necessary. A person to succeed must have faith in self as the two young men who considered themselves capable of pleasing New York in jewelry started the Tiffany store. They believed and succeeded. One must also have faith in ideas for if inventors did not believe in these things the cotton-gin, steam engine, and steamboat would never have been invented or perfected. Also a person should hold faith in others and a school-teacher who does not believe in children has no business in the school room.

A French artist started out to paint pictures that would be popular with the people of France, but they were not a success. He changed his ideal and started paintings of scriptural scenes in which he had faith. He succeeded. And numerous are the incidents that are similar.

Washington and Lincoln
The false and weak friends were continually falling Washington, he was criticized and abused but he had profound faith in the cause for which he was fighting and it was over the bridge of Washington's faith that this nation passed over the chasm and into existence. Lincoln was at all times beset with the perils of enemies and false friends, still he had faith and held the cause to be a righteous one and the faith of Abraham Lincoln and men like him in the north acted like an anchor and held the ship of state from drifting on the rocks. By the faith of the citizen the United States has grown and prospered and by the faith and not by the policy oratory of one man will the nation be preserved.

Faith's Power in Private Life
New discoveries of science revolutionize the methods of science but faith revolutionizes, strengthens, renews and re-creates a man's inner soul. Faith will increase the joys, decrease the sorrows, widen the opportunities and multiply the powers. Faith is the food, the medicine, the light and the joy of everybody. It nourishes and glorifies all. Mr. Denison gave an example of a young lady whom faith had so changed.

Limits of Faith
The question is asked, what can faith do and what cannot faith do? It cannot make an ignorant man wise but it can eradicate the rudeness and roughness of ignorance and make the man beautiful with faith and wisdom. Some people believe that faith can cure diseases, but people still die. Faith will help; it will take the sting out of pain, the edge off of sorrow and suffering and set the mind free from desperate fears but it will not set a broken leg or cure a cancer. Faith will not create a talent for art or music, but it will enable a man to use what talent he has. The tragedy of life is not the lack but the misuse of one's talents. Some make a trivial interpretation of faith and think of freedom from pain and sorrow, which discipline us so that we may attain the fullness of Christ.

The Quality of Faith
The real faith is the deep fundamentals. The shallow faith is that of going to church to go through a few forms. All faith is like a journey through the mountains and a question arises like the mountains loom up before one. Some attempt to answer these by agnosticism, some by indifference, and others by skepticism. But the questions of the philosophers are answered by faith.

Sorrow is discipline, death is a door to character and power in heaven in which there comes glorious release and ecstasy. The faith by which we help. This kind of faith is a necessary element of life. The faith that helps us is not that we believe, God spoke to Moses or commanded Joshua but that He speaks to us and commands us and forgives us. We do not have to believe that Paul and Silas were sent out but that we are sent out.

Faith is an element of thought and lives are made beautiful by it. There should always be faith, not just once-a-week Sunday faith and if man's life could be spread out in a panorama he would see business, pleasure, indulgence and only here and there faith, where some sorrow had entered his life.

Faith with some is like a polish, only on the outside, or a nagging thing or something vague. Faith should have a hold on us so that it is a do to the largeness of life, a power that leads to the fullness of Christian manhood and womanhood.

Still Trusting
St. Petersburg, June 27.—Although several discouraging reports were received from the far east today, Kuroki is confidently relied upon to relieve Stackelburg from his perilous position, and also to deliver a heavy blow against Kuroki before the latter can effect a junction with Oku's army now marching up the peninsula.

Considerable mystery is cast around the naval engagement at Port Arthur in which three Russian ships were reported damaged, one of them being sunk. Admiral Alexieff's report, although it mentions the losses, does not mention any damage to his ships.

A rumor is current saying that the vessels anchored there by the Russian fleet, under the command of Admiral Alexieff, are in the harbor. Definite news of the affair is anxiously awaited and there are angry mutterings over the mismanagement that has characterized the conduct of naval affairs at Port Arthur since the beginning of the war.

Rumor of Battle
St. Petersburg, June 27.—A rumor is in circulation here to the effect that the Russian forces have been defeated at Tashichao and compelled to retreat northward. At the war office it is stated that no report of any such action has been received, but none of the officials would deny that such a battle might have been fought. It is known that there were fully 50,000 Russians at Tashichao last Thursday, and that the entire Japanese army under Gen. Kuroki was moving northward to attack them.

Japan Alarmed by News
Tokio, June 27.—Japan was electrified yesterday by a report that a fleet of twenty-five ships was outside of Port Arthur. With the memory of the recent raid of the Vladivostok squadron in mind it was feared that the Russians had out-maneuvered Admiral Togo, and it was not until official advice had been received from the fleet commander that the people were reassured.

IRRIGATION FOR GENERAL CLASSES

Guy Mitchell Writes of the Plans of the Government in the Future.

The movement to secure an agricultural education through the public schools of the country is steadily increasing and from time to time manifests itself through unusual channels. At the recent convention of the Travelers' Protective Association at Springfield, Illinois, addresses were made on this subject and the association voted to present the matter before the National Educational association at its coming annual convention at St. Louis.

The Travelers' Association passed a comprehensive resolution setting forth that the stability of our social and business conditions and the prevention of recurring periods of trade depression require that the balance of our population should be maintained on the land as independent land owners and producers from the soil and that ways should be found and carried out for placing upon the land all unemployed labor and transforming every "out-of-work" into the owner of a home on the land from which he can at all times get a comfortable living with his own labor. It was set forth that the entire American educational system should be so remodelled as to induce every child to be a lover of nature and of the country and to train him toward the land as a source of livelihood rather than away from it; that the children should be taught to farm as they are now taught in France and Denmark in the public schools and that farm training schools should be established by county, municipal, state and national governments.

The resolution further called attention to the great remaining public domain in the west as by far the most valuable asset of this nation which will furnish an outlet for our surplus labor during this and coming generations, urging that it be reserved for real homesteaders who will farm it in small tracts.

The association appointed a permanent committee on Education, Irrigation, Forestry and Land, with a member from each state and territory to carry out the idea of this resolution. Irrigation Work of Geological Survey
The work of the Geological Survey in carrying out the provisions of the national irrigation act has brought it to the fore as one of the great executive departments of the government. With a government irrigation fund which will be by the end of the present year in the neighborhood of $25,000,000, this work must be recognized as one of the very important improvements of the country. Although irrigation operations are confined largely to the 16 arid and semiarid western states, the eastern part of the country must be more or less interested for several reasons. Men are constantly moving westward for new homes where they can earn a livelihood, or become land owners, while business men are interested in seeing a development of the west which will afford them wider home markets for their manufactured products. The changing of the western deserts into tens of thousands of new and productive small farms will not only relieve some of the overcrowded sections of the east but will stimulate business of all descriptions, just as the opening of the great Mississippi Valley provided a market for the American manufacturer such as Secretary Wilson says can be found in no other part of the world.

Already the Geological Survey has designated some 15 large irrigation projects throughout the west where huge impounding dams and ditches which will be as large as rivers are to be constructed. Work is already commenced on some of these and the next two or three years will see the national irrigation policy in full operation.

The $25,000,000,000, now practically available for irrigation construction, is by no means the limit of this work since the fund is constantly growing through the sales of western public lands, and as soon as the first irrigation work is completed, the cost of its construction will begin to come back into the fund for use on some other project. It is not intended that the government shall give away irrigation works. What government land is placed under irrigation will be given the homesteader free, and cultivated only upon his residence, and cultivation on the land—the construction of the dam and the main ditches—will be borne by the settler. It is this business-like feature of the irrigation act which has found for it such support among the business men of the country.

CAULIFLOWER IS BEING MARKETED

Home Grown Vegetables Are Now Ready for Deliveries—Prices Very Reasonable.

The first of the home grown cauliflower to be received in the city came to the local merchants today and the stuff was of the finest. There was some wonderfully fine stock in the deliveries made, and the merchants and housewives were equally excited in taking in the goods. The wholesale price of the stuff was 60 cents to $1 per dozen for the goods. This was a good return to the growers and they were all satisfied.

The pineapple shipments are getting near the end, and there will be less than a week of the fruit for those who like to can it. The 7-7-7 crop is entirely at an end, and the Florida growers will ship to the market for another week.

The strawberry growers are happier than in many days past and all on account of the few drops of rain which fell yesterday. They count it an opportune moment and there will be plenty of berries for a day or so, as there was a good supply on the vines and they were fairly well ripened and the rain of the day was such that completed the job, and there was almost an instantaneous turn in the color of the fruit.

HE WILL BRING BACK A BRIDE

Manager Campbell of the Badger Coal Co., Left for Evanston Saturday on a Pleasing Errand.

Manager A. W. Campbell of the Badger Coal Company of Janesville and Belmont left Saturday for Evanston where, on Wednesday June 23 he is to be married to Miss Edna Bronson who has been teaching Latin in the Kenosha high school during the past year. The wedding will be a quiet one, and only relatives will hear the service read by the father of the bride-to-be, Rev. S. C. Bronson, who has the chair of Practical Theology at the Garrett Biblical Institute in Evanston. Mr. Campbell and Miss Bronson were classmates at Northwestern University, both receiving their diplomas in 1902. The bride elect is a member of the Kappa-Kappa Gamma sorority and the prospective groom belongs to the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. After a brief honeymoon trip they will come to Janesville to make their home at 258 South Jackson street, the former residence of the late Mayor A. O. Wilson.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR THE CROPS

RAIN IS NEEDED THROUGHOUT THE WHOLE COUNTRY.

PLENTY OF YOUNG CHICKENS

"Wooden Mothers" Have Taken the Place of the Good Old Fashioned Hens.

Rock county needs rain. Not only does it need rain badly, but unless we have a fairly wet July our crops will be burned up. It is the same old cry that goes forth each year—rain, rain, rain. Local shrews during the past week have done much to alleviate the drought in several localities but a good soaking rain is necessary. Already over half of the hay crop has been burned up and while a second crop may help matters, still the first crop is the one most depended upon. In some small tracts, however, there will be a big crop, but they are so few that they scarcely count for more than local districts.

Small Grains
Among the small grains, winter wheat is excellent. In fact, all winter grains have done exceptionally well. Through the southern tier of townships there is an excellent crop of rye which is in excellent shape. The grain itself finds a ready market and the rye straw is much in demand for paper manufacture. Oats are very short this summer. Barley is good. The winter wheat is restricted chiefly to the southern portion of the county, very little being grown in the northern tier of townships.

Other Crops
Corn is very late this summer but it is of very good quality and gives promise of a bumper crop if the good weather keeps up late into the fall. The harvest will be late but it is expected it will be good. Potatoes are good. This is, however, true only of the early crop. It has been the bait of the farmers for many years past to plant a small batch of early potatoes for their own use and then the first of June to plant their regular crop. The early crop has turned out in excellent shape and the plants of the second crop are just showing. Garden truck is plentiful; almost every farm has a good kitchen garden and considering the lateness of season everything is in excellent condition.

Berries and Fruit
Strawberries have lacked moisture. In the southern row of townships they have to a large extent dried up. However, near Milton and Milton Junction they are plentiful. The berries give promise of a good crop. The apples are plentiful at the present time but the fact that the little green buds are falling from the trees in many localities worry fruit growers in general. There are more buds this spring than for many years past and all the crops are suffering more or less from their ravages.

Tobacco and Beets
The acreage of the county in tobacco has been cut down from thirty to forty per cent. Near Edgerton, however, the average amount of acreage has been put in. The present outlook is good for this crop. Sugar beets are plentiful. The old tobacco acreage has been given over to this crop. Tobacco growers have had some trouble with the weeds having allowed them to get ahead of them, but now they have caught up with them and the promise is for a good crop. The question of hired help was one which troubled the farmer at the beginning of the year, but there seems to be no scarcity at the present time and help is more plentiful than for many years past.

Stock
The sheep industry is picking up this spring. The price of wool is up and this always affects the sheep raising. Calves have done very well and cows and steers have fattened nicely. There has not been much trouble with the stock as a general thing although in many localities the calves were sold early in the spring to save feeding and did not bring as good prices as they would now.

Chickens
One of the remarkable features of the year is the great number of chickens, ducks and turkeys that are being raised. The use of the incubator throughout the county is quite prevalent. The first output of these "wooden mothers" were badly chilled early in the spring and many of the chicks died but the second hatching is now doing nicely. In about three months' time there should be plenty of young broilers on the market.

BOTH BALL TEAMS WERE VICTORIOUS

Clinton Maroons Bested Madison on Saturday, and Janesville Beat Milwaukee Brewers Sunday.

Madison league baseball team suffered the same fate as her golf team, though the margin of defeat was a smaller one, in the contest with the Clinton Maroons at Athletic park on Saturday. The Maroons won the game by a score of 3 to 1. Berry, a left handed twirler, was in the box for Madison and held his opponents down until the seventh inning when Alken for the Maroons, made a safe hit with two men on bases. Two running catches by Fulton, center fielder for the home players, were spectacular features of the game. At Yost's park yesterday nearly a thousand people saw the Independent Brewers of Milwaukee vanquished by the score of 10 to 2. The Janesville team played in the best form this season and the contest was an interesting one from start to finish.

CLAIMED JANESVILLE BRIDES IN CHICAGO

John A. Wagner of That City Wedded to Florence Hart Miner—Jessie Spellman Marries Walter King.

In Chicago Saturday afternoon two Janesville ladies were quietly married. Both are lost to this city as one is to make her future home in Chicago and the other in Minneapolis.

Miner-Wagner Nuptials
Miss Florence Hart Miner was married to John A. Wagner at the home of her aunt on Ashland boulevard. The ceremony was witnessed by only a few intimate friends and relatives. After an extended wedding trip the couple will return to take up their residence in Chicago. The bride is the only daughter of the late Cyrus Miner. The groom is a prominent business man and possesses a costly suburban home at Elmhurst, just outside of the city.

Spellman-King
Miss Jessie L. Spellman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Spellman of Janesville, was married to Walter Watson King, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. King who resided on Prospect avenue for a number of years. Both young people are graduates of the Janesville high school and members of the class of 1900. The groom is at present a traveling salesman for the Reeves Manufacturing Co. of Minneapolis, one of the largest importing firms in the west. The wedding ceremony was a quiet one and after a wedding repast had been served the happy couple left by boat for Milwaukee to journey from thence to Minneapolis their future home. After August 1 Mr. and Mrs. King will be at home to their friends at 408 East Fourteenth street.

PROF. ARMSTRONG AMONG THE GREAT

Is of Distinguished Lineage—117 Lions Caught and Trained—Arm Three Times Broken.

A book agent was in the city today with a prospectus and sample volume of an entirely new and up-to-date encyclopedia. The volume was No. 11 from "Appo to B" and in looking over the specimen the name "Armstrong" in red letters was noticed. Upon reading it was found to be a life of Professor Mogul Armstrong the lion tamer now with Nonesuch Brothers' circus. It goes on to say he is the son of a British army captain and a Hindu woman of the highest caste who were married shortly after the battle of Tashichao in which Captain Armstrong won his Victoria Cross for bravery. His mother has successfully traced her ancestry back to the Great Mogul and today would undoubtedly be the greatest woman of Asia had she not been killed by a lion while on a hunting expedition in 1890. From then on Professor Armstrong has been a lion tamer, having captured alone and single-handed and tamed 117 full grown lions in the last fourteen years. He has appeared before all the crowned heads of Europe and received medals and loving cups from each which will be on exhibition in Nonesuch Bros. museum. Professor Armstrong has three and his right arm broken and carries a scar over his left eye which he received in a fierce encounter with a twenty year old man enter in 1838.

LEYDEN BRIDGE WAS IN FLAMES ON SATURDAY

Fire Was Discovered in Its Incipient Stage and Little Damage Resulted.

Live coals from the fire-box of the North-Western passenger engine arriving at Janesville at 11:55 Saturday morning are supposed to have set fire to the railroad bridge north of the city, near Leyden. The flames were discovered soon after the train had passed and a special train was hurried to the scene. During the interim all northbound trains were ordered sent via Afton.

KOSHKONONG.

Koshkonong, June 27.—Mrs. M. G. Garrigus went to Chicago Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis of Albion, Orleans county, New York, are visiting at Robert Miller's.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyons of Ft. Atkinson spent Sunday with their mother.

Gertude Clark is enjoying a week at home with her parents.

August Lark is having his house painted.

The young people of this neighborhood and a few from Otterbein enjoyed a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Root last Friday evening.

Mrs. Dr. R. L. Brown of Janesville and master Raymond, were visitors last week at P. Traynor's.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sublen are the proud parents of a bouncing baby boy born June 12.

Children's Day exercises were held last Sunday at the Otter Creek church. Herbert Robinson played ball Saturday at Freeport, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Barless, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McCulloch, Miss Margaret Hamilton, Miss Mae Treat and Miss Farnsworth of Janesville and Mrs. Charles Patchen of Clinton spent Sunday at P. Traynor's.

Mrs. Robert Miller served a very tempting supper to the members of the Mite society and to a number of others present at her pleasant home, Wednesday afternoon. A most enjoyable afternoon was spent. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Richardson of Ft. Atkinson, parents of Mrs. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Starkweather of Milton Junction.

The next meeting of the Mite society will be held with Mr. and Mrs. Starkweather at Milton Junction on Friday afternoon, July 8. The election of officers will take place in the afternoon. In the evening ice cream, cake and water will be served. All members are requested to bring cake. The committee appointed were Rev. C. M. Starkweather, Mrs. F. B. Steadman, and Mrs. Scott Robinson. Remember the date, July 8.

People's Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy's Unusual Offer.

"It isn't often that we have faith enough in the medicine put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure," said a member of People's Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy to a Gazette man who dropped into their store, "but we are glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that basis."

"The Dr. Howard company, in order to get a quick introductory sale, authorizes us to sell their regular fifty cent bottles at half-price, 25 cents, and, although we have sold a lot of it, and have guaranteed every package, not one has been brought back as unsatisfactory."

"One great advantage of this specific," he continued, "is its small dose and convenient form. There are sixty doses in a vial that can be carried in the vest pocket or purse, and every one has more medicinal power than a big pill or tablet or a tumbler of mineral water."

"We are still selling the specific at half price, although we cannot tell how long we shall be able to do so, and anyone who is subject to constipation, sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion, or a general played-out condition, ought to take advantage of this chance. You can tell your readers that if they are not satisfied with the specific they can come right back to our store and we will cheerfully refund their money."

VERDICT OF THE PARTY
The Republican national convention in session June 22, 1904, adopted by unanimous vote, the following sentiment, contained in the report of the committee on credentials, and offered by said committee after a thorough investigation of the Wisconsin contest:
"Your committee report it to be their final judgment and unanimous decision that the convention which elected John C. Spooner, Joseph V. Quarles, Joseph W. Babcock and Emil Baensch, as delegates-at-large, together with their alternates, was the regular convention of the republican party in Wisconsin."
"This is the highest authority in the party, and the decision ought to satisfy every loyal republican in the state."

RIGHT SIDE UP.

That the decision of the National Republican convention in Chicago regarding the status of La Follette's faction of the party has had its influence upon the state can not for a minute be doubted. The following editorial is from the Marshfield Times of Friday, June 24, and expresses as the sentiment of many a community throughout the state who have hitherto kept quiet in the long and tedious fight of the past two years.

THIS PAPER IS REPUBLICAN.

During the twenty-five years that The Times has been published in this city, it has at all times and under all conditions upheld the Republican party and its principles in national, state, county and municipal politics, and upon every issue great or small, its publishers, past and present, have believed and still believe and advocate, that the salvation of this country and its magnificent institutions lies in the continued success of the Republican party, and the perpetuity of its cardinal principles; and that to insure such party success the organization must be actively maintained and supported in every election.

Two years ago when the split in the Republican party in this state was first manifested to such a degree that a stand with one or the other faction, was necessary, we supported the candidacy of Senator Whitehead for governor because we knew him to be an honorable man and true Republican, and for the further reason that we considered Robert M. La Follette a party wrecker and political usurper of Populist tendencies. When, however, the republican state convention nominated La Follette and his ticket, we abandoned the struggle against him and did everything in our power for the state ticket.

Since the election of Governor La Follette in 1902, believing that the factional fight in the state jeopardized the national ticket and that some arrangement of partisan difficulties might be made to avoid a struggle that must imperil the state from a national standpoint, we have taken no stand as between the contesting factions. Though realizing that the course of La Follette and his followers was a disgrace to the party and to the state, and believing that he held the achievement of his personal ambitions above the honor and success of the party, we have held aloof from the light in the hope that the rational element of his followers might be brought into harmony with the real Republicans of the state.

La Follette's bold attempt to steal the Republican state convention and force himself upon the party a third term nomination against the will of the majority, in which he was supported by men who have hitherto ranked high in the councils of the party, has shown that a peaceful settlement of partisan difficulties is impossible. His platform adopted at that rump convention has proven him no follower of Republican principles. The action of the Republican national convention now in session at Chicago, in declaring John C. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Babcock and Emil Baensch legally entitled to seats as delegates at large from this state, and declaring the convention which elected them the legal Republican convention of Wisconsin, has destroyed the last claim which the La Follette faction may have had to be considered Republicans, and has given the voters of the state a Republican ticket and a Republican platform which they may be proud to support.

We believe that the action of the Republican national committee, composed of a representative Republican from each state in the Union, after careful consideration of the facts and arguments to both sides, in unanimously deciding against the La Follette pretensions, is right and legal; and that as an indication of the will of the majority of the Republican party, it is binding upon all true Republicans. The conduct of La Follette in discrediting the party and charging fraud and unfairness to the national convention, brands him a bolter from the party, not entitled to use the party name and play upon its prestige to force his Populist measures upon the public.

Accepting the unanimous decision of the national convention as the irrevocable edict of the highest party tribunal, this paper will give its hearty support to the ticket headed by Hon. S. A. Cook and which aims at the return of Senator J. V. Quarles, and the restoration of the Republican party to power in this state. Whether the La Follette administration by virtue of controlling the secretary of state succeeds in securing a position on the official ballot or not, the ticket recognized by the national convention is the Republican ticket, and is entitled to the support of every man who believes in Republicanism and honest methods. The time has come when those who revere and honor name and traditions of the Republican party, who believe in the honest administration of public affairs and the abolition of factional bossism, must oppose the usurping bandit who has corrupted the state government and disgraced the state. And as for this paper it will support the regular Republican party in this state now and so long as it is true to Republican principles, in prosperity or adversity, in success or defeat.

THE LA FOLLETTE REBELLION.

The Governor has signified to all his followers in this state that he will rebel against the action of the national committee and the committee on credentials, and raise the standard of rebellion against the Republican party of the United States, by appealing to the people of Wisconsin to sustain him and his peculiar doctrines, says the Evening Wisconsin.

We believe that this is the first instance in our national history when a fragment of the Republican party in one state raised the standard of rebellion against the Republicans of forty-four other states. It is a remarkable trial; yet La Follette and his coteries think it will succeed. Time will disclose the truth. It is a venture so dangerous that if he fails it will not only ruin La Follette politically, but blight the prospects of his deluded followers for many years to come. They will literally belong to no party, and will have neither prestige nor position.

This is a source of regret, as many of the Third-Termers are worthy men who have been misled by the glare of promises which lures three of the most marked characteristics of man's nature—avarice, greed and rapacity. They will become bolters, because they obeyed the orders of one man who makes the dictates of his personal ambition the sole rule of his political life.

IN AT NUTSHELL.

Samuel A. Cook is the candidate of the Republican party—the party of Lincoln and Grant, the party of Garfield and Harrison and McKinley, the party of Roosevelt and Fairbanks. La Follette is the candidate of the Third-Term party—the party of Robert M. La Follette. This is a presidential year. Next fall Wisconsin Republicans will vote the Republican ticket, state as well as national, and the candidates who are on the Republican ticket will be elected.—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

This talk about Secretary Cortelyou being in persona non grata to the republican party is all poppycock. Cortelyou is a young man and the democratic press fear his influence in the coming campaign.

That meeting of the La Follette forces at Madison was a wonderful gathering of the state officials but it lacked the enthusiasm of a general uprising for the formation of a Third party.

Why does not Mr. Bryan help his friend Mr. La Follette out now that he is in trouble for promulgating the same ideas that he lost out on in the past two national campaigns. The great irony.

Appleton Post: The best defense, so far as we can make out, that Commissioner Host was able to make of the insurance inspection accusations and other charges—of $25 a day for the attorney general, for instance—was that the president of the company investigated costs an annual salary of $85,000, the first vice president $60,000, the second $40,000 and the third $20,000. In comparison with these the charges which Mr. Host made do not look big to him and hence he sees in them nothing wrong. So it was with the girl who couldn't see that her baby represented any great sin, "because it's such a little thing!"

This is the first time in the history of the party when the Governor of a state has assumed the authority to openly criticize the action of a republican national convention. But then there is only one other La Follette and his name is Bryan.

How will the governor's friends explain their attitude towards the railroads and Roosevelt now that Paul Morton, a well known railroad man has been made a cabinet officer?

La Follette's chances of securing the nomination on the democratic ticket are gone in the days of old. The Milwaukee Journal is to support him.

England has been closely watching the methods of the United States in the dealings with the Moroccan brigands.

One would think that Port Arthur would have fallen or at least given some definite sign of capitulation after all these reports it had surrendered.

Many of the battles of the Japanese-Russian war are fought in the war office of St. Petersburg before and after they are fought in Manchuria.

Do you suppose that Senator Fairbanks will be surprised when the committee announces his nomination as vice president?

Mr. Nieman firmly believes in La Follette just the same as he believed in Mr. Rose when Mr. Rose paid for his endorsement.

The Milwaukee Daily News is doing yeoman's service in the cause of pure politics and the retirement of La Follette.

They say a gold brick can never be sold to the same man twice. How about this Mr. Stephenson of Marinette.

Any man with a price can have the political opinion of at least one Milwaukee paper.

Chief Hogan is back and has the reins of police matters well in hand again.

Wisconsin is not doubtful. It is a sure Roosevelt state.

That Panama canal will be built yet.

It is time to pay that dog license.

PRESS COMMENT.

Chicago News: Strawberries are said to be lower in price, but doubtless you can testify that no one has broken the news to your grocer.

Oshkosh Northwestern: How the various state employees must tremble in their shoes when they recall that the time is approaching when the governor must start out collecting a fund to aid him in liquidating the expenses of an independent campaign.

Des Moines Register and Leader: A correspondent of the New York World is said to have been executed by the Russians as a spy. By this time his confederates must be convinced that mindreading is the safest way to secure the news.

Evansville Review: If the moral scribbles on this great glorious journal is not converted into the Free Metalloid fold it must be on account of his insanity. Its teachings have been shouted into his ears from early morn till late at night for the past week.

Superior Telegram: There was a time when the girls thought it was a great catch to get a man who was a good provider and a member of the United Brethren church, but now they want a millionaire and an automobile.

Merrill Advocate: La Follette has come to the place where the roads fork—one is the straight narrow road that he'd rather be shot than travel; the other is the broad way that leads eventually to the devil—the only devil La Follette fears—political oblivion.

Waukegan Post: About one more investigation into a department of the state administration will make even the most thoroughly hypnotized half-breed admit that the present is the most corrupt administration Wisconsin has ever had.

Neenah Times: The price of canned salmon ought to be lower soon, as it is stated that the carp which are being taken by the wholesale from Wisconsin waters form an excellent substitute for the Columbian river delicacy, and are being utilized as such by the packers.

Exchange: This story is told of an old bachelor who bought a pair of socks and found attached to one a paper with these words: "I am a young lady and would like to correspond with a bachelor with a view of matrimony." Name and address were given. The bachelor wrote, and in a few days got this reply: "Mamma was married twenty years ago. Evidently the merchant of whom you bought those socks did not advertise, or he would have sold them long ago. My mother handed me your letter and said possibly I might suit. I am eighteen."

Evening Wisconsin: The editorials in Governor La Follette's mouthpiece in this city are so surcharged with froth and foam that the softening of the brain in the editorial corps of that paper is more noticeable than ever and is one of the melancholy results of a too implicit obedience to the mandates of one man.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: It will be a keen disappointment to the governor, no doubt, to learn that the Republican national convention has no time for his flights or oratory and no desire to hear him repeat his Chautauque speech or his county fair addresses, but then, most men are obliged to get up against the real thing occasionally, and there is no reason why he should be an exception to the rule. Where the governor made his mistake was in failing to recognize a defeat, when it was administered to him here in Wisconsin, some weeks ago.

Ashland Press: La Follette has attempted to sacrifice the state and the party upon the altar of his boundless ambition for place and for power, but a halt has been called by the national convention of the Republican party of the United States. S. A. Cook is the nominee of the Republicans of Wisconsin for governor, and he will be elected in spite of the La Follette bolter party.

Menasha Citizen: Now that the scene of the Wisconsin melodrama of "The Two Orphans" has shifted to Chicago, we will hear from the La Follette family, deserted and left alone outside the Coliseum, and hear of claims of Democratic aid and encouragement. "Never mind," says the governor, throwing a chest, "great and good and fair-minded Democrats are going to take me in." One might laugh at this assumption if it did not contain a reflection upon his intelligence. It is not, perhaps, strange that in the lurid atmosphere which surrounds Governor La Follette, objects and people are seen in a distorted image of themselves. Resentment at the opposition to his third term ambition has possibly unsettled for the time being, his judgment of Democrats. Does he then imagine that they will depart from their own noble and splendid traditions, in order to prop his falling personal fortunes?

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

A woman is never too old to think some people don't suspect it.

It's very easy for a clever man to get around a woman—with his arm.

No man can break a girl's heart as easily as some other man can repair it.

When a woman doesn't nag her husband it is a sign she hasn't married him yet.

Generally a man's savings bank account stands in the name of his wife's dressmaker.

All that anybody needs to break into society is a gold drill with a diamond point.

It's mighty curious, but the fewer square feet there are about anything a woman wears the more cubic yards of money she puts into it.

EXPORTING OUR MINERAL WATER

MACHINES BUSY BOTTLING 3000 GALLONS A WEEK.

SENT ALL OVER THE STATES

The Fame of Janesville Spread to Cities, Towns and Villages from Atlantic to Pacific.

Among the industries of the city that are making Janesville famous throughout the country is the bottling of Burr Lithia Water. Thousands of quart, pint and half-pint bottles are shipped to all parts of the United States every week, each bottle bearing the label of the kind of water and the name of Janesville.

The source of supply is the cluster of mineral springs situated about three and one-half to four miles up the river on the Burr estate. The springs being higher than the level of the river at that point, it makes it possible for a pipe line to be run to the river. The water scow, a large floating tank—the capacity of which is three thousand gallons—is filled from the pipe line and towed down to the bottling works three times a week.

The Process of Bottling. Besides the Mus-Kis-Kee-Wa-Boo water which is used for medicinal purposes, two different kinds of water are bottled, one the plain Lithia water which is called "still water" and the other the carbonated Lithia Water. The latter kind is the most used and the process of bottling this kind is very interesting, each part being worked down to a science and nearly all done by specially made machinery.

The bottles are first washed in a machine which thoroughly swabs the inside and removes every particle of dust and dirt from the inner surface and then put in another piece of apparatus where they are rinsed. The receptacles are next placed on the "filler." The Lithia water is pumped from the scow into a large tank connected with the filling machine. In the same manner the carbon gas is sent into the machine and by the pressure of the gas the water and carbon is thoroughly mixed and forced into the bottles on which when shipped there is a pressure of fifty pounds.

Some Danger. The danger in the bottling works is from the carelessness of the operator about the amount of pressure or a flaw in a bottle which will cause a bottle to burst and cut the hands of the operator. The corks are then put on and the process of bottling is completed. Hitherto the common corks have been used and were held down by wire but not proving entirely satisfactory a machine for placing crown corks has been installed and these will now be used. The labels are then put on by machinery at the rate of about four thousand per day. The bottles are then wrapped and packed in boxes to be shipped by the dozens and grosses to all portions of the country.

BRIEF NOTES ABOUT TOWN

Second Ward the Victor: On Sunday afternoon the second ward baseball team defeated the third ward by the score of 13 to 1. Hutchinson's work in the box was the feature of the game.

Up the River: The Parker Pen Co. office force spent Saturday afternoon at Crystal Springs park. They left shortly after dinner in Mr. Gehrke's small steamer and returned about sun-down.

The Covenant Club: The Covenant club of the Congregational church held a porch picnic meeting at Miss Ruth Charleston's, 107 South Linn street this afternoon at 5:00 o'clock. The girls are preparing a box to send to Miss Millard's school for blind children in India within a few weeks.

Last Meeting: The Ladies Benevolent society of the Congregational church held their last meeting until fall on Friday. The regular and faithful work of this band of ladies is one of the quiet and efficient departments of the church's usefulness.

A Milwaukee Escort: Wolcott Post of the Grand Army, Milwaukee, will act as the guard of honor for Department Commander Phly Norcross during the national encampment to be held in Boston on August 15, 16, and 17. Capt. Norcross attended the meeting of the post in the Cream City Friday evening and made a short address and a resolution offering the services of the organization was passed at its conclusion.

No Union C. E. Services: There will be no union Christian Endeavor services this summer as the number present at the meetings last year did not prove entirely satisfactory and many left before the end in order to get to church on time. There will probably be no C. E. meetings of the Presbyterian society during August.

Door Being Cut: The window-ledge to the new fire-escape on the high school building is being cut down to the floor and will be made into a door. Many repairs are being made in all the school buildings.

Colt Case Adjourned: An adjournment until Tuesday was taken in the case brought in Justice Earle's court by Robert Clark of the town of Harmony to recover $1000 alleged to have been paid to Stouffer Hies on false representations for a moonblind colt.

He Wanted a Dog: One man in Janesville is so anxious to "get into the procession" that he asked the city clerk this morning to furnish him a dog to pay a license on. The clerk agreed to do so.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Steam Roller Working: The city steam roller is at work on Prospect avenue where a new surface of crushed stone is being put on the street.

Grocers May Have an Outing: It is the intention of the Janesville Retail Grocers' association to hold their annual picnic this year, but the date and place has not yet been decided upon. This much was decided at a recent meeting held by the association. The meeting was well attended and everyone present was enthusiastically in favor of having a general good time this summer. Several places are being considered, but none have as yet been decided upon.

First Car of Potatoes: Hantley Brothers, commission merchants of this city, have received the first carload of new potatoes from the south this morning.

Meet Wednesday: There will be a meeting of the Bower City Boat club at Frank Pierson's store, Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. There will be matters of importance brought up and all members and boat owners are requested to be present. By order of the president, J. C. Harlow, secretary.

Board of Review: The board of review organized for work this morning. Several appeared to make complaints but the number was not large. The board will be in session from 9 to 12 and 1 to 5 each day for two weeks.

Stock Increased: An amendment to the articles of incorporation of the Beloit Hotel Co., providing for an increase of the capital stock from $25,000 to $40,000 has been filed with the register of deeds. C. B. Salmon, president and C. A. Gault, secretary, are the signers.

Drunks Punished: Frank Sadler was given thirty days in jail for drunkenness on Saturday. Mike Miller, an Italian, was fined two dollars and costs for the same offense.

More Dogs Licensed: At three o'clock this afternoon the number of dogs licensed to roam the streets of Janesville was 201, an increase of nearly a hundred since Saturday.

Argued Before Sewerage Com.: In the interests of the St. Paul railroad Atty. A. A. Jackson appeared before the sewerage committee this morning to offer objection to the assessment of the railroad for sewers in the 1st, 5th and 2d wards, claiming exemption from such assessment with the right of way. City Attorney Burpee argued that the right of way was 100 feet and no more.

Assignment of Lease: C. F. Sultemeyer of Chicago has assigned his lease from Laura E. Burr of the Lithia springs to the Rock County Mineral Water Co.

Exciting, But One Sided: A good exhibition of amateur baseball was given yesterday at Rube's park. The Cornstalks defeated the Tobacco Weeds to the tune of 14 to 4. Volman and Dillon were the battery for the Cornstalks and Hill and Thompson for the Tobacco Weeds.

ADOPTED PLANS FOR NEW SCHOOL

THOSE SUBMITTED BY ARCHITECT KEMP WERE ACCEPTED.

TOTAL COST OF SAME $13,000

New Edifice Will Be Most Handsome and Modern in City—Three Walls of Menominee Pressed Brick.

After a lengthy consideration of the plans for the new Garfield school to be erected at the corner of Jackson and Union streets, the school board at its meeting Saturday evening accepted those submitted by Architect F. H. Kemp of Beloit. A number of modifications will be made in the original plans and for this purpose a special meeting has been called for this evening.

To Be Handsome Edifice. The new building is to face Jackson street. When completed it will undoubtedly be the most modern and handsome of the grade-school buildings in the city. Two stories high with a basement attic and four rooms, the whole enclosed by walls, three of which are to be constructed of Menominee red pressed brick, are called for in the specifications, which also provide that the structure is to be erected above ground, plumbing and heating included, at a cost of about $13,000.

Completed Next January. Before bids can be called for it will be necessary to have duplicate copies of the plans and diagrams made, so that it may be a fortnight before contractors are called upon to figure on them. Several days must elapse after the call for bids before they can be received and opened. Even if all goes well it will be the first of August before the excavating and actual work of building can commence. The work will require five months, so the building can hardly be ready for occupation before the first of January.

In all probability it will be necessary to utilize the Lincoln school until that time though it could be wished that some other expedient might be discovered. The narrow passageways and exits in the building make it unsafe. Ample provision for every possible emergency have been made in the plans for the new structure. There is a broad hallway in the center leading from the Jackson street entrance and an ample passage-way leading to another exit on Union street.

Looking To Future. The possibility of additions being made to the building in the future has been kept in view and the rear wall is to be constructed in such a manner that it can be removed at a minimum cost. The cheaper variety of brick will be used for this wall and it will contain no windows.

CELEBRATION HAS TAKEN SHAPE NOW

Decoration Committee Have Made Elaborate Plans for the Fourth.

If Janesville is not a gay city the Fourth it will not be the fault of the committees who have charge of the work of arrangement. At ten o'clock in the morning comes the great industrial parade with all its many floats exuberantly Janesville industries. Then at two comes the Nonesuch Brothers' circus parade. Then comes the ball game and later in the afternoon the launch parade on the river. But in the evening comes the affairs of beauty stretched along Milwaukee street from the Myers house corner to the Grand hotel and from the courthouse park to North First street on Main street there will be one long grand row of Chinese lanterns. Fifteen hundred of them for which twenty-five gross of candles have been purchased. To add to this three thousand two hundred roman candles have been purchased, together with innumerable packages of red, blue, green and yellow bengal fires. Thirty-six thousand balls of fire will be let off on the night of the nation's birthday to let the public know we are celebrating. When one stops to consider all these things, the glories there will be bands playing all day long and that cowboys and wild Indians will roam the streets and mingle with savages from all nations who are part of the famous Col. Nonesuch's circus. It will be a pleasing sight. Everyone is planning to have a good time and everyone will have one.

BAND CONCERT ON CORN EXCHANGE

Second of the Ten Concerts Will Be Held This Evening—The Program.

The second concert of the Imperial band will be held this evening on the Corn Exchange. During the past winter the band has held continuing practices and the result of the work done has brought the players into excellent shape. Last week the concert held at the courthouse park was largely attended despite the fact it had looked like showers all the evening. The one fault found with the concert was the fact that the band played from the steps of the courthouse instead of in the open and the music was not heard distinctly except by those persons who were directly in front of the players. The following is the program for this evening's concert:

Program. March—Waving Plumes. . . . . Miner. Finale—From Arlec. . . . . Bach. Characteristic—In Tokio. . . . . Nirella. Waltz—Nourhime. . . . . Barnard. Serenade—Love's All Sweet Song. . . . . Baritone and Cornet. . . . . St. Clair. Entr'acte—Bewitching Beauty. . . . . Selection—King Dado. . . . . Leaders. March—Col. Gross—Drum Solo by Mr. A. Benkert. . . . . Clark.

ANNUAL CHILDREN'S DAY EXERCISES

Gathering of the Rock River Sunday School Association Held Sunday Afternoon.

The annual children's day exercises of the Rock River Sunday School association were Sunday afternoon at the Rock River schoolhouse. The exercises consisted of recitations, dialogues and singing and was in charge of the superintendent, Mrs. D. F. McGee. Much credit is due the superintendent, teachers and pupils for the manner in which the affair was carried out. After the program Rev. Vaughan and Superintendent J. T. Wright of this city addressed the gathering. This is one of the oldest Sunday school associations in the state of Wisconsin and dates its organization back to 1866, when it was organized by J. T. Wright and Rev. C. L. Thompson of this city.

THINKS CIRCUIS OUGHT TO PAY BIG FEE TO THE CITY.

Former Oshkosh Comptroller Thinks $2,000 Would Not Be Too Much.

Because of the damage done to brick and macadam streets by the passage of heavy circus wagons and horses, the latter being compelled to dig to get a footing, F. E. Worden, former city comptroller of Oshkosh, believes that the Ringling circus should have paid the city $2,000 instead of $50 divided between the town and city for parade and exhibit privileges. He estimates that the show took $10,000 out of Oshkosh, over all expenses were paid and maintains that the figure that he names as an equitable license fee would just about cover the damage done to the improved thoroughfares.

COMMON COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

Location of New Fire Station Will Probably Be Determined—Question of Voting Machines.

At the regular meeting of the common council this evening the fire and water committee will make some recommendation regarding the location of the new fire station. It is probable that it will be located at Spring Brook. Options have been secured on a good location. The finance committee is expected also to make some recommendation regarding the voting machines, one of which has been set up in the city hall. Other important business will come up for consideration.

RABBIS HOLDING A CONFERENCE

Important Questions Affecting Synagogue Will Be Considered.

Louisville, Ky., June 27.—One hundred and fifty rabbis, each representing one or more congregations of the Reformed Jewish Church in America, are in Louisville to attend their fifteenth annual conference. Rabbi David Phillips of Cincinnati preached the conference sermon. The conference will consider two important questions—Sabbath observance and the establishment of a synod. The report of the committee on Sabbath, headed by Rabbi Jacob Vooranger of San Francisco, will deal with the merits of Saturday and Sunday as Sabbath days, there being a desire for a uniform observance of one or the other. The committee on synod, headed by Rabbi H. G. Enelow of Louisville, it is understood, favors the establishment of a synod to act as the central governing body of the church, with the view of establishing uniformity of church work.

Timely Rowing Hints

The Regatta Season.

Oarsmen's Lives In Training Not to Be Envied—How to Hold an Oar—The Stroke Described, Etc.

Rowing sharps are now at the height of activity. June and July are the two greatest aquatic months of every year, so far as oarsmen are concerned. The intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson, at Poughkeepsie, and the Yale-Harvard contests at New London, Conn., are always held either in the latter part of June or the first week in July, and followers of water sport look forward to this season with expectancy of the 45 caliber variety.

Of course the side of rowing races seen by the public is one that is spectacular and thrilling in the extreme. The waving flags, the hoarse scream of steam whistles and the shouts of the multitude seem a fitting reward to the straining athletes in the swift shells. But the oarsman knows little of what is happening about him in the excitement of the race. Every nerve and must be taught the method of sitting in the shell, how to operate the sliding seat, how to ship and unship oars and how to push off from a wharf without swamping, how to approach a landing place in good form, how to put a shell into the water and how to lift it out. All these points are matters that require careful attention, unimportant though they may seem to the novice, who believes that all he has to do is to clamber into a shell any old way at all, pick up an oar and start ahead to fame.

On entering a shell a man should always step on the exact middle of its bottom planking. In stepping out he should step from the middle to the wharf. The holding of the oar is most important. In a crew, when only one oar is used by each man, the hands should grasp the oar firmly, not with the tips, but with the whole of the fingers well around. Each separate finger, not merely the first two, should feel the oar distinctly. The knuckles of the thumbs must not be more than one and a half or two inches apart. If kept too far from each other the inside arm is sure to be bent, and the inside shoulder thrown back. The thumb should in no case overlap the tips of the fingers. It should circle the oar and merely meet the fingers.

Keep the head up, the eyes looking straight ahead. In reaching forward the hands should be shot straight out from the body without the least pause. Almost as soon as the oar has passed the knees the wrist should be raised to bring the blade at right angles to the water preparatory to dipping. Delaying this motion frequently results in the oars going into the water in a slanting position. The blade should present its full face to get the maximum of resistance from the water. Care must be taken not to lower the

Tennis Topics.

Coming Tournaments—Larned and Whitman—Advice of an Expert.

The good old game of lawn tennis is coming back to its own. Scores of its votaries who left the fold during the last three or four years owing to the fascinations of other pastimes are now returning to their former love with renewed ardor.

In and about New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and St. Louis tennis activity is now becoming rampant. Only the consistently warm days of midsummer are necessary to bring the wielders of the gutted racket to the height of the season's glory.

As usual, the Newport (R. I.) tournament, in which the national championship titles are decided, will prove the center of interest in the east. San Francisco, Chicago and St. Louis events lead in the west. New Yorkers always turn out in force at the contests at the Newport Casino, as they also do at the matches of the Crescent Athletic club at its country house at Bay Ridge, N. Y. The annual invitation tourney at Southampton, N. Y., occurs during the week before the national contest, and practically all of the leaders will apply finishing touches to their strokes preliminary to the crucial tests at Rhode Island's rendezvous for sportsmen and society folk.

William A. Larned of Summit, N. J., present champion in singles, is looked on by the knowing ones as the probable victor in the Newport competitions. Mr. Larned's time honored rival, Malcolm D. Whitman of Boston, may re-enter the lists once more, and in that case the championships will be all the more interesting and uncertain. Beals C. Wright of Harvard has been showing dangerous form during the last two seasons, and his friends believe that he may capture Mr. Larned's title this year. In the doubles the Wrenn brothers, among others, will be prominent.

The eastern tennis season has been given added interest through the formation of the new league, consisting of the Crescent Athletic club, the Englewood (N. J.) Field club, the Kings County (N. Y.) Tennis club, the New York Tennis club, the Montclair (N. J.) Tennis club and the West Side (New York) Tennis club.

"The most important point for tennis players to remember," says E. Parmley Paret, the noted expert, "is that the racket should be firmly gripped in making all of the strokes. A loose grasp ruins otherwise good play, and no habit interferes with progress more than that of holding the handle loosely. The slightest relaxation in the grasp will often let the racket turn in the hand while making a stroke, and it is failure in consequence. It should be held by the extreme end always, the 'butt,' or leather binding at the end, resting against the ball of the hand.

"For all forehand strokes or those made when the ball is on the right side of the body the hand should rest diagonally along the handle, with the first finger separated from the others and extended an inch or two further along the racket, but also wrapped around it. It should never rest its full length along the handle, as we sometimes see beginners doing. The finger nails when at rest on the handle should face at the

WILLIAM A. LARNED, TENNIS CHAMPION. moment the ball is hit in the direction to which it is to fly.

"Holding the racket loosely in the hand, swinging it or twisting it sideways before making a stroke, jumping a little just before the stroke instead of while it is being made, taking the eyes off the ball and even momentary lapses of indifference while playing are all dangerous habits to contract, and each will develop into a bad fault if not checked at once.

"To begin right is half the game in lawn tennis, and if one wants to learn to play the game well it is important to begin correctly. Some of the simplest matters are the most important and if these are mastered at the start the improvement in skill will follow quickly after and the development be gradual, but rapid. To accumulate bad habits of play when first learning the game is only to handicap a beginner indefinitely, for it is much harder to give up bad habits and alter the style in these small matters than to begin all over again and learn anew."

FINE WATERMELONS.

Of Tempting Appearance, Extra Quality and Reliable Culture.

F. William Rauce of New Hampshire believes that the great drawback to the more successful culture of the watermelon in the north is a lack of knowledge of the best methods of growing them. His experiments lead him to believe that with a better selection of soils and more pains taken in the preparation of the hills a surprisingly large percentage of even southern varieties could be made to mature as far north as southern New Hampshire. Three varieties that find special favor with Professor Rauce are here illustrated.

Coco Early produces a round or slightly oval, medium sized fruit, having irregular stripes of light and dark green. The flesh is red, solid and very sweet, the rind brittle and the seeds dark brown. It is an early and reliable variety in New England.

Boss produces a long, dark green melon which is very heavy for its size. The flesh is solid, red and of the best quality; the seeds are black.

Black Eyed Susan is a southern variety which promises well for northern culture. The fruit is oblong to long, with light stripes; the rind is thin and tough; the flesh scarlet colored, firm and of extra quality; the seeds white, with dark spots at the sprout end. It is an early variety.

WHEN TO SOW CROPS.

Various Grains, Vegetables, Etc., May Be Put In Late With Good Results. By H. M. COTTELL, Kansas Experiment Station.

Cowpeas may be sown as late as Aug. 1, with a prospect of a fair crop if we do not have early frosts. Late shallow and drill in the furrows one half bushel per acre, sowing the Whip-poorwill variety.

If the season is favorable early amber sorghum or Kaffir corn sown broadcast, one bushel per acre, will furnish pasture if sown as late as Aug. 1.

Rape sown as late as Sept. 1 will furnish pasture for hogs. Sow dwarf Essex rape five pounds per acre broadcast or three pounds per acre drilled. It will do to feed in six weeks after seeding. An acre will pasture ten to twenty hogs, and as seed costs only 10 to 15 cents per pound the cost is light. Rape is a fair pasture for cattle, but some dry feed must be given with it to prevent scouring. It takes a heavy frost to kill rape.

Turnips should also be sown largely, as the seed is cheap, and if a crop is secured the turnips will save a great deal of other feed needed for the cattle, young stock and hogs.

We have not had success with late sown millet, but if the fall should be damp and cool millet would make a fair crop.

Wheat, oats and rye will furnish a large amount of pasture if the season is favorable, and while these crops are in good condition cattle will do well on them without any other food than straw. A farmer pastured his dairy cows on oats and sold during the fall $7 worth of milk for each acre of oats pastured, the cows having no other feed.

Both cowpeas and second growth alfalfa make good pasture in dry weather; we would not dare to pasture them when damp. If we needed it we would pasture our soy beans and Kaffir corn, feeling sure that more can be got out of these feeds green than dry.

Arsenate of Lead For Curculio.

Many New York plum and cherry growers have long desired a less laborious method than the "jarring" process for fighting curculio. Poison sprays have been recommended and tested for many years, and some think they succeed in controlling the insect in this way. Last season several growers made thorough tests of arsenate of lead, and the results were very gratifying on both plums and cherries. It was used at about two pounds in fifty gallons of water or Bordeaux mixture and applied thoroughly two or three times soon after the blossoming period. Recent experiments in other states show that this poison is more effective than Paris green and similar poisons in fighting the codling moth. Thus the indications are that arsenate of lead will come into more general use.—M. V. Slingerland.

Afflicted With Manana.

The children of Spanish residents in Mexico are less energetic than their parents, and the change becomes more noticeable with every generation.

New Wash Goods.

Although we have had a backward season we seem to have sold as many Wash Goods as last year which is saying a good deal, and our stock was much reduced. Hot weather has just commenced and the sale of Wash Cotton Goods from now on promises to be large.

300 pieces of new things have just been received which puts our stock in the pink of condition.

Browns are very popular right now. Our brown window will give one a fair idea of the styles we show.

Vollies in many styles can be seen at prices from 12 1-2 to 35c.

Materials for shirt waist suits sell freely, and here can be found many desirable creations of good weight, including plain linens in all colors, embroidered linens and pique, Donegal Scotch linen suiting, very new, &c.

At 25c we have 50 pieces of beautifully fine striped Linens, 36 inches wide, in white, pink, blue, green, red and gray. These linens are regular 50c quality, but we bought them much under price and offer the lot at 25c a yard. Nothing compares with them for children's wear, summer skirts, shirts waist suits, &c.

Bathing Suits

We are showing them in several qualities at $3.00, $3.50, $5.00. Also have Capes and Shoes, making a complete bathing outfit.

MAYNARD - SHOE - CO.

West End Of Bridge.

fiber in his body is under pressure. His whole attention is centered on the bending oar and the back of the man in front of him. He may burst a blood vessel, strain his heart, lose six or eight pounds of flesh or faint from sheer exhaustion, but all these things count for naught when the glory of his alma mater is at stake.

For he is known a member of a racing crew leads a life while in training that is as onerous as that of a miner or a coal heaver, and he is at all times under watch of a trainer who is usually as severe and as tyrannic as Nero, the burner of ancient Rome.

A candidate for a crew should first determine to put himself in the best possible condition physically.

The stomach, the lungs and the heart should be kept at a high standard of healthfulness and strengthened as much as possible. No matter how much muscle a man may have or how much he knows about the technical side of rowing, he will prove more of a hindrance than a help if he cannot stand a severe strain in a race. The instructions of the coach concerning practice, etc., and the rules of the training table should be strictly followed.

A majority of the men appointed to the rowing squad of a college or club have had previous experience with the oars. They may have rowed for smaller organizations. These men may consider themselves to be ready to start work with a crew immediately, but such is not the case. There are as many different styles of rowing as there are crows in a cornfield. Every man has peculiarities in his execution that must be eradicated. The coach considers one of his principal duties to be the development of uniformity in his crews. The men must be made to work together like clockwork, and consequently many a man has to unlearn all that he has previously been taught.

One of the best known college coaches said to the writer not long ago: "I do not want any so called expert oarsmen to come to me for places in the crews. They know too much. They have formed habits oftentimes that do not agree with my ideas, and it is a difficult job to trim off the edges of their work so that they are in harmony with the other members of the crew. For me the ideal candidate for rowing honors is a man who is well built, sound in mind and body, willing and not overconfident. He can be molded into the best type of oarsman."

If a man has had no experience whatever in racing he has a great many simple things to learn before he can hope to take up actual work in a shell. First, he must learn how to get in and out of the sensitive racing shell, that tips over with the slightest error of its occupant or occupants. Also he hands too much in reaching forward, as the stroke will thus be made choppy. When the rower straightens up at the end of a stroke he should be sure to hold his elbows close to his sides. The chest should be thrust well out, and the entire strength of the arms and shoulders should be put into the finish. The oar must be brought straight home to the chest, the root of the thumbs touching the front of the jersey about an inch below the lower end of the breastbone.

Remember that the vital part of the stroke is the first part. Therefore the greatest force should be put into your effort the moment the blade is submerged. This is a basic law of rowing that is too frequently ignored.

Force the blade through the water in a straight line. Do not give a jerk at the finish of a stroke, after the manner of many tyros and improperly taught oarsmen. Make the entry of the blade into the water as violent as possible without sacrificing good form.

RACING IN JERSEY!

Turfmen Buy Land For Track—Preparing Legislative Bills.

In the hope of favorable legislation in New Jersey next fall, David Holland, president of the Queens County (N. Y.) Jockey club, and Louis Kuhnly of Atlantic City, N. J., have purchased a large tract of land directly back of Atlantic City for the purpose of building a fine race course. The track is planned on the same lines as Morris park, New York.

Backers of the racing enterprise believe there are favorable indications of the resumption of horse racing in New Jersey. If a bill is passed the new track will be ready for a meeting in the spring of 1905. Two bills are now being drafted to legalize horse racing in Jersey between April 15 and Nov. 1.

Under the conditions of the bill the state will exact a percentage of all racing receipts from all tracks. The bill also provides that races shall not be run on a track less than one mile in circumference.

Abolish Double Headers.

There ought to be some method found of doing away with double headers altogether. There were no such things in "the good old days" when the sport was the thing and the receipts a side issue. Whenever it is absolutely necessary to play off two games on the same day to finish a series which may have important bearing on the pennant race, the clubs should be compelled to play the postponed game off in the morning. It would mean small receipts, but it would prevent cheapening the sport to a department store level.
